

Award-winning Low Cost Airline announce new route from Mahon to Belfast

Leading low cost airline unites Menorca with the Belfast and Northern Ireland from May 2009

Jet2.com is offering the people of Mahon more choice for 2009 with the launch of a new route to Belfast International Airport.

The service will provide people living in and around Mahon with a new link to the bustling and vibrant city of Belfast, which was voted 2nd Favourite UK City in the Observer and Guardian Unlimited Travel Awards 2007 and a 'must-see' destination by Lonely Planet.

As well as offering a wealth of attractions and activities, the city also provides an excellent base from which to visit the beautiful countryside of Northern Ireland, including the spectacular Giant's Causeway in North Antrim as well as the beautiful coast at Portrush and Portstewart.

Announcing the launch of the new route, Chairman of Jet2.com, Philip Meeson, commented, "We are dedicated to providing our customers with even more choice. We now offer three great services from Mahon, meaning that even more people can choose to take advantage of our great value fares and leading customer service".

Amador Rodríguez, Managing Director of the Menorca Tourist Board (Fundació Destí Menorca) said: "It is a great opportunity for Menorca to have a direct flight to the important city of Belfast; not only for visitors enjoying the wonders of our island, but also for British and Irish inhabitants and residents of Menorca to have the chance to visit the fantastic city of Belfast. From Menorca, we are very grateful to Jet2.com for the opportunity provided.

- Fares from Menorca to Belfast start from €64.49 one way including taxes. Flights start 19th June 2009.
